"We're always looking to recruit veterans and transitioning service members to Navient," said Maureen Murphy, senior director, Navient. "We know they have excellent experience and skills that we can put to work right away."

About 100 veterans attended the job fair, sponsored by U.S. Sen. Tom Carper (D-Del.), U.S. Sen. Chris Coons (D-Del.) and Rep. John Carney (D-Del).

Navient displayed a list of jobs currently available, including customer service, collections, reporting and analytics, plus other corporate roles. In Delaware, the company seeks to fill more than 120 positions by the end of the year.

In addition, representatives from veteran support agencies provided services and resources to help veterans excel in the job market, including résumé writing and job interview tips.
